Stock Performance (1-year)

Wedding season demand healthy

Own initiatives strengthening the reforms-led tailwinds

We recently met Titan Company's (TTAN) management to take a stock of the company's underlying story and the efforts that it is undertaking to grow amid a favorable operating environment for organized players. Key takeaways.

- In an encouraging sign, wedding season demand is scaling up well for TTAN. This should uplift management confidence as it had guided for healthy growth (25-30%) for 3QFY19 but refrained from commenting on the fourth quarter performance. In our view, if consumers continue flocking to its stores in the wedding season, Jewelry sales growth of 25% for the full year is achievable (note that TTAN had guided for Jewelry sales growth of 25% at the start of the year but lowered it to ~20% later).
- SSSG is likely to contribute 75-80% of Jewelry sales growth, which is even higher than the impressive 60% that it was reporting earlier. This, in turn, would have extremely positive implications on Jewelry EBIT margin.
- Sustained growth in the Watches segment (where visibility is high for the near term, but somewhat unclear for the longer term) can prove beneficial, as EBIT margin in this segment is 300-400bp higher than that in Jewelry.
- Jewelry business growth prospects remain robust, and now Watches and even Eyewear segments have raised their hands to contribute to growth. We believe that premium valuations are fully deserved for a business that has perhaps the best revenue growth potential in the large cap FMCG/retail space (20% CAGR in Jewelry business over the next five years) and also operating leverage-led margins support. We maintain our Buy rating on the stock with a target price of INR1,105, based on 47x Dec'20 EPS (~10% premium to three-year average P/E).

Jewelry: Taking initiatives for more glitter

- Six factors are driving growth in Jewelry segment: (1) high-value studded jewelry growth, (2) increase in the share of wedding jewelry, (3) gold exchange, (4) golden harvest, (5) efforts to grow in cities where it is weak and (6) the target to increase the number of stores from 267 stores in 150 towns now to 400 stores in 250 towns in the next few years. Management believes that all of these measures have started yielding results and contributing nearly two thirds of 20-25% growth that it is recording in Jewelry. Tightening of measures to stop illegal trade over the past few years, GST implementation, and credit squeeze faced by other players due to various scams have also helped but to a smaller extent, according to management.
- In FY18, the gold exchange scheme contributed 40% of Jewelry sales, while the gold harvest scheme accounted for 18%. Growth targets for studded jewelry are also being met.
- The company aims to focus more on wedding jewelry now, setting a target to increase its contribution to 50% of Jewelry sales from 30% now. Wedding jewelry segment has turned more attractive now as stricter compliance norms is taking away the edge that unorganized players had earlier. Design element is also becoming important for buyers.

➤ Reasons why wedding jewelry was not a focus area earlier?

- a) Tanishq was design and purity focused, and thus, products were sold at a significant premium
- b) Involved large deals, where bargains were sought
- c) Low compliance among peers; they could thus offer discounts
- d) Involved plain gold, and thus, relatively low margins

■ Other points on Jewelry business

- Average ticket size in Jewelry has increased to INR80,000 from INR65,000 a few years ago.
- Management recently guided for 25-30% growth in 3QFY19 but was reluctant to call out strong growth for 4QFY19. However, TTAN can achieve 25% growth in Jewelry this year, especially if wedding demand sustains (we are assuming 18% growth in our forecasts).
- SSSG is likely to contribute 75-80% of Jewelry sales (as against 60% stated earlier). This should significantly benefit segmental EBIT margin.
- The focus on Mia and Caratlane brands stems from the increasing trend toward lower-value accessories among women.
- Jewelry stores are classified into: (1) L1 stores: Operated and owned by the company, inventory on the books of the company and opex borne by the company. (2) L2 stores: Operated and owned by management agent, inventory on the books of the company and opex borne by management agent and (3) L3 stores: Store operated and owned by the franchisee, inventory on the books of the franchisee and opex too borne by the franchisee. Each of them has an equal one third share in overall store count. Investment for a 3,000sq.ft store is INR120m and average store size is 6,000 sq. ft. Stores are expected to become profitable in three years.
- For the calculation of SSSG, retail sales of stores are calculated by taking the stores present in the base quarter as well.
- For the company's Jewelry business, plain gold jewelry above 75gm is treated as wedding jewelry.
- Gold procurement: 50% of inventory is gold on exchange, 40% is gold on lease and the balance 10% is bought at the spot rate. Cost of gold on lease is 2%.

Watches: Time is good, but sustenance is key

- Reasons for Watches segment resurgence (management unclear as to whether it will sustain):
- a) The company can be offering better products, designs and variants at good price points (INR2,000-4,000).
- b) TTAN earlier had stayed away from online channel because of discounting and to avoid potential harm to the brand. However, it is now able to sell without offering discounts. The company now derives 10% of revenues from the online channel, primarily in the last 15 months. Profitability is good for both TTAN and online retailers.
- c) Share of gifting was smaller earlier. However, the company now has good products; it is also doing well on advertising.
- d) Smart watches now contribute 10% of sales.

- Titan brand has the highest gross margin in Watches compared to the other brands of the company. Titan is the biggest, followed by Fastrack and Sonata.
- Fastrack fitness tracker is gaining good traction.
- Management believes that there is a need to get smarter, e.g. analog watches with connectivity. The company is no. 2 in wearables already.

Eyewear: New strategy of lower ASP working well

- The changed strategy of moving from higher ASP to lower ASP is working well.
- E-commerce now contributes 10% of Eyewear sales.
- Fastrack segment now accounts for 15% of Eyewear.
- 85% of lenses are manufactured by Titan itself. It is also investing in lens labs (5-6 now) that are closer to customers.

Other key points

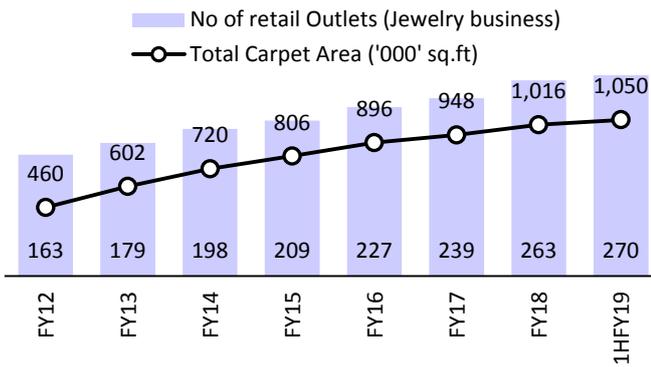

- There is increasing confidence among various business teams of the company because of performance delivery.
- Agility, adaptability and innovation have picked up sharply over the past 30 months.
- Cost escalations are likely – staff costs increasing by 10%, rentals by 5% and other expenses by 4-5%. Thus, any fall in SSSG below 10% might hurt margins.
- Skinn is now an INR1b brand.
